A Balanced Approach to Litigating Family Law

DiPiano Family Law Group, P.C. proudly offers over 25 years of aggressive litigation and effective negotiation in a personalized and attentive boutique setting.

John DiPiano, managing partner of DiPiano Family Law Group, P.C., approaches Massachusetts family law matters with knowledge, experience, and skill. Not only does he have a long history of trial experience in family law, but he also co-edited the fifth edition of Massachusetts Domestic Relations—a guide to family law topics for both attorneys and judges.

DiPiano Family Law Group, P.C. prioritizes highly focused and personalized representation, offering upscale clients the experience of a traditional Boston legal practice without the added expense and commute of a downtown location. The firm specializes in all aspects of family law including divorces, contested child custody matters, prenuptial agreements, complex asset division issues, alimony, and child support. Well-connected in the legal community, DiPiano assists parties with the confidential resolution of family law cases as a trained mediator and periodically serves as a court-appointed special master overseeing discovery disputes. He believes that “clients deserve a team that has their best interests at heart with the skills, experience, and expertise in the industry to obtain the best possible outcome.”

Regardless of the complexity of the case, DiPiano can assemble a qualified team of professionals to support any client issue. If a client requires a financial expert, therapist, forensic accountant, real estate appraiser, or business valuation expert, DiPiano immediately consults with those necessary to develop the expertise required for the case. With sophisticated issues such as complex asset division, he understands that valuation and taxation implications drastically influence a client’s equitable share of the marital community, necessitating the right consultants.

“I have a network of people I trust to build an intimate team that works together hand in glove,” he says.

A Guided Process

Facing family law issues can be a confounding and anxiety-provoking experience. DiPiano Family Law Group, P.C. attorneys are supportive and cognizant of client fears and concerns, allowing them to feel comfortable discussing delicate issues. “Whether it’s a straightforward asset division or a contentious child custody case, all clients have a puzzle to solve,” DiPiano says. “We’re their problem solver.”

The firm applies a hands-on approach with clients, keeping them well-informed to make the process less intimidating. “We put our clients right on the team; they are not back-seat passengers,” DiPiano states. “They’re right up front with us.”

The work that DiPiano and his team do requires a precise balance between empathy and advocacy that DiPiano has perfected. “It’s rewarding to be the shepherd guiding clients through the process. I let them know they will be okay and will make it to the other side,” he explains. “Ultimately, they are the heroes of their own story. I’m compassionate as your counselor and tenacious as your advocate.”
